The Dallas Light Rail Train System: A Quick Overview

The Dallas Light Rail Train system consists of four lines: the Red Line, Blue Line, Green Line, and Orange Line. The Red Line, the longest of the four, stretches from North Carrollton in the north to Westmoreland in the south, traversing the city's eastern side. The Orange Line, currently under construction, will extend from DFW International Airport in the north to Northlake College in the south, running parallel to the Red Line but on its western side. Together, these lines provide convenient access to major destinations, including downtown Dallas, Uptown, and Deep Ellum, as well as popular suburbs such as Carrollton, Farmers Branch, and Irving.
