Born in 1949, Kidd grew up in a poor family in rural Kentucky. At the age of 18, she entered a convent, where she spent the next 18 years. During that time, she developed a system for predicting lottery numbers based on a combination of numerology, astrology, and intuition.

In 1984, Kidd left the convent and began using her system to play the lottery. Within a few years, she had won several large jackpots, including a $1 million prize in 1987. Kidd's success quickly attracted attention, and she soon became known as the "Lottery Nun."

Kidd's lottery system quickly drew criticism from lottery officials and mathematicians, who claimed that it was nothing more than a scam. However, Kidd maintained that her system was legitimate, and she continued to use it to play the lottery for the rest of her life.

In addition to her lottery winnings, Kidd also earned a substantial income from selling her lottery system to other people. She wrote several books and appeared on numerous television shows to promote her system. Kidd also claimed to have taught her system to several students, who she said had also won large lottery jackpots.

Kidd's success and claims of having cracked the lottery code made her a controversial figure. Some people believed that she was a genuine psychic, while others accused her of being a fraud. However, there is no doubt that Kidd's lottery system had a significant impact on the way that people play the lottery.

In the years since Kidd's death in 2012, her lottery system has continued to be used by people who believe that it can help them win the lottery. While there is no scientific evidence to support the claims that Kidd's system can predict winning numbers, it remains a popular method of play for many lottery enthusiasts.

Sister Sarah's Lottery System

Sister Sarah's lottery system is based on a combination of numerology, astrology, and intuition. Kidd believed that each number in a lottery draw has a specific meaning, and she used this knowledge to develop a system for predicting which numbers would be drawn.

Kidd's system also takes into account the astrological sign of the player and the date of the draw. She believed that the alignment of the planets could influence the outcome of a lottery draw, and she used this knowledge to adjust her predictions.

Finally, Kidd relied on her own intuition to make her final predictions. She believed that she had a sixth sense that could help her to identify winning numbers. Kidd would often spend hours meditating and praying before making her predictions.

Is Sister Sarah's Lottery System Real?

Sister Sarah's lottery system has been the subject of much debate over the years. Some people believe that it is a legitimate system that can help people to win the lottery, while others believe that it is nothing more than a scam.

There is no scientific evidence to support the claims that Kidd's system can predict winning numbers. However, there are also no scientific studies that have disproven the system. Ultimately, whether or not Kidd's system works is a matter of faith.

If you are considering using Sister Sarah's lottery system, it is important to do your research and understand the risks involved. There is no guarantee that you will win the lottery, even if you use Kidd's system. However, if you are lucky enough to win, Sister Sarah's system could potentially help you to increase your winnings.

Sister Sarah Pick Lottery Kidd was a controversial figure who claimed to have cracked the lottery code. While there is no scientific evidence to support her claims, her system has been used by people who believe that it can help them to win the lottery. Whether or not Sister Sarah's lottery system is real is a matter of faith.
